ANNIVERSARY EVENTS/VISITING LECTURERS

ANNIVERSARY PRESS RELEASE:

WAVES, GENERATIONS, EXCLUSIONS, EVOLUTION: 25 YEARS OF FEMINIST STUDIES AT CONCORDIA

A roundtable on the evolution of feminist studies and activism, a symposium on Mideast peace, a lecture by a Palestinian feminist, two book-launch, parties, and a reunion-reception will mark the 25th anniversary, this fall, of the Simone de Beauvoir Institute. The Institute, Concordia University's women's studies teaching and research unit, is the oldest women's studies program in Canada, and according to the Montreal Gazette, has served as a "catalyst for change" in the community, as well as the academy.

The overall theme of the events is "Waves, Generations, Exclusions, Evolution." Dr. Lillian Robinson, the Institute's Principal, points out that "It may sound like a mouthful, but every one of those words carries meaning as we discuss the past, present and future of women's studies and the movement that brought it into being".

On Monday, November 3rd, at 7 p.m., a roundtable on the "mouthful" is planned (Room 767, Hall Building, 1455 de Maisonneuve West). "The evolution of feminism is often described in terms of successive waves or generations, "with the differences characterized as a Problem," explains Robinson. "But I see it as an opportunity. We in North America suffer from a kind of historical amnesia: when a social movement has a setback, we lose not only the movement, but the memory. The women's movement is in a position to insure this doesn't happen to us. We can talk across generations and see that the exclusions from our story--exclusions that made it look as if feminism belongs only to white, middle-class women--do not follow us into the future."

Participants in the roundtable include Professors Shelley Fishkin (Stanford), Elizabeth Kennedy (Arizona), Sherene Razack (OISE, Toronto), as well as Candis Steenberg, a Concordia doctoral student. (More information about these speakers is attached.) A reunion-reception will follow the roundtable, with generations of former Institute students answering from their own experience the question, "What can you do with a degree in women's studies?"

Anniversary events emphasize women as actors on the world stage. At 7 p.m. on Thursday, October 23rd, also in Hall 767, Professor Nahla Abdo of Carleton University will speak on the inclusion of Palestinian women in the feminist project. The title of her talk is "Feminisms, Solidarity, Inclusion: The Case for Palestine." The Mideast is also the focus of a day-long symposium on Sunday, November 23rd, Concordia's Hall Building, room H-110, when, as part of Concordia's initiative on Peace and Conflict Resolution, speakers from Iran and will discuss women's role in the struggle for both peace and social change in the region.

Two book-launches are also planned. On Tuesday, November 4th, the Institute will join McGill's Centre for Research and Teaching on Women to celebrate the publication of Womankind: Faces of Change Around the World, with text by Donna Nebenzahl and photos by Nance Ackerman. On November 12th, the Institute's lounge (2170 Bishop), in collaboration with the Armenian Student Association and the Montreal Armenian community, will be the setting for a party to welcome Victoria Rowe's study A History of Armenian Women's Writing: 1880-1922, about the women writers who chronicled the Armenian genocide.

All events are free and open to the public. Contact: Marie-Claire MacPhee 848-2424, loc. 2373.

ANNIVERSARY EVENTS

Himani Bannerji

The Rhetoric of Freedom: Women and Nationalism in the Works of Rabindranath Tagore
September 29, 2003. H-767

Co-Sponsored by The Colleges Visiting Lecturer's Committee

Dr. Himani Bannerji is an Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at York University. She was a Visiting Fellow at Visva Bharati University, Santiniketan, West Bengal, India, while doing a research project on: Humanist Nationalism of Rabindranath Tagore. Dr. Bannerji received a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council Post-Doctoral Fellowship affiliated to Ontario Institute for Studies in Education to work on the project: From the Woman Question to Feminist Politics: Gender Organization of Class Politics in India.

Nahla Abdo

Feminisms, Solidarity, and Inclusion: The Case for Palestine
October 23, 2003. H-767

Nahla Abdo, Ph.D. is an Arab feminist activist, Professor of Sociology at Carleton University, Ottawa. Among her recent publications are: Women and the Politics of Military Confrontation: Palestinian and Israeli Gendered Narratives of Dislocation (2002--with Ronit Lentin), and Sexuality Citizenship and the Nation-State: Palestinian Experiences, forthcoming.

Dr. Abdo is the founder of the Gender Research Unit at the Women's Empowerment Project/Gaza Community Mental Health Program in Gaza and a contributor to the establishment of the Women's Studies Institute at Birzeit University. In Canada, she co-founded the network CASPA, Canadian Academics in Solidarity with Palestinian Academics in which she is still active.

Book Launch for “A History of Armenian Women’s Writing: 1880-1922”

By Victoria Rowe

November 12, 2003. Simone de Beauvoir Institute, Room 101

Co sponsored by The Armenian Students Association of Concordia University and Hamazkayin-Sanahin's Literary Committee

Victoria Rowe is an independent scholar. She earned her Ph.D. at the University of Toronto, where she has lectured on Armenian literature. A History of Armenian Women's Writing: 1880-1922 introduces the reader to the wealth and diversity of women's writing in Armenia in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The six selected women writers have different views and visions; they nevertheless found inspiration in one another's activism, writings, and arguments--forming a literary genealogy of women's writing in Armenia.

Book launch for: Womankind: Faces of Change Around the World.

Stories by Donna Nebenzahl Photographs by Nance Ackerman.

November 4th, 2003. McGill Bookstore Café

Co-sponsored: McGill Centre for Research and Teaching on Women and Raincoast Books.

Concordia University Peace Building and Conflict Resolution Series:

Women and the Struggle for Peace in the Middle East

November 23, 2003. H-110

Cosponsored by Alternatives

This symposium was conceived of and organized by Roksana Bahramitah, a SSHRC post-doctoral fellow and a part time faculty member at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute, under a grant made to her.

The symposium included three panel discussions including: 1. From Kabul to Baghdad: Women and the Aftermath of Military Interventions 2. Panel on Iran: Women under Washington's Pressure for Regime Change in Iran and 3. Women and Washington's Foreign Policy: North American Women's Views on Washington's Foreign Policy.

Keynote Speakers at the symposium included Dr. Jaleh Shaditalab: a founding member of the Tehran University Centre for Research on Women. Ms. Catherine Pappas: the project manager on Central Asia at Alternatives (TBC). Nazanin Shahrokni: the research coordinator of the Women and Politics Program for the International Network of Women Living Under Muslim Law at Concordia University. Dr. Roksana Bahramitash: a faculty member at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute at Concordia University. Dr. Eric Hooglund: a senior scholar at the Institute of Palestinian Studies in Washington. Susan Harvie: is a consultant in international development and made two missions to Iraq with Alternatives. Dr. Homa Hoodfar: an anthropology professor at Concordia University. Ms. Diane Matte: the coordinator of the Women World March International Secretariat in Quebec. Ms. Shahla Abawi: an activist in the Afghan Housewives Organization in Kabul, accepted the invitation but was unable to obtain a visa.

To mark our 25th Anniversary we hosted a Roundtable discussion:
Waves, Generations, Exclusions, Evolution: 25 Years Of Feminist Studies At Concordia.
November 3rd, 2003. Room - H-767

The Panelists at this event included:

Yolande Cohen: Professor of History at the Université du Québec à Montréal. A specialist in identity politics, she has published extensively on youth history and on gender. Her books include: Les Jeunes, le socialisme et la guerre; Femmes de Parole; and Profession: Infirmière.

Shelley Fisher Fishkin: Professor of English and head of American Studies at Stanford University. She is the co-editor of Listening to Silences: New Essays in Feminist Criticism, and the author of books including Was Huck Black? And Lighting Out for the Territory.

Elizabeth Lapovsky Kennedy: has just completed a term as Director of Women's Studies at the University of Arizona. She is co-author of Boots of Leather, Slippers of Gold: The History of a Lesbian Community and Feminist Scholarship: Kindling in the Groves of Academe, and is currently a fellow of the National Humanities Center in North Carolina.

Sherene Razack: Professor of Sociology and Equity Studies at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, University of Toronto, and is a former faculty member at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute. She is the author of Looking White People in the Eye: Gender, Race, and Culture in Courtrooms and Classrooms and editor of Race, Space, and the Law: Unmapping a White Settler Society.

Candis Steenbergen: a doctoral student in Humanities: Interdisciplinary Studies in Society and Culture at Concordia University, where she is also a lecturer in Women's Studies and Education. She was guest editor for Canadian Woman Studies' issue on young feminisms and The Graduate Researcher issue on R/Evolution, and her work appears in Turbo Chicks: Talking Young Feminisms.

This event was moderated by Lillian S. Robinson, Principal of the Simone de Beauvoir Institute since 2000. She is the author or co-author of books including: Sex, Class, and Culture, Night Market: Sexual Cultures and the Thai Economic Miracle, and Feminist Scholarship: Kindling in the Groves of Academe.

A vin d'honneur followed the roundtable, and former Institute students answered the question, "What do you do with a degree in women's studies?"

Book launch for "Wonder Women: Feminisms and Superheroes"

By Lillian S. Robinson

March 22, 2004. Simone de Beauvoir Institute, Room 101

The book's editorial summary tells us:

In her sparkling new book, Lillian Robinson looks at Wonder Women - all of them - Supergirl, Invisible Girl, Invisible Woman, She Hulk - and examines what these cartoon heroines mean for everyday life. Can you balance a home, career, and the struggle for justice? What about men? Does flying help?

INSTITUTE EVENTS

Book Launch for: Restless Wave: My Life in Two Worlds

By Ayako Ishigaki. Afterword by Yi-Chun Tricia Lin, Greg Robinson.

Translations by Michiko Aramaki.

April 7, 2004. Simone de Beauvoir Institute, Room 101.

The moving coming-of-age tale of a 1930s feminist and peace activist, Restless Wave recounts the author's early life in Japan and the United States, and describes her brave struggle against Japanese militarism.

Hughette Eyüboğlu

"On Being a Woman in Turkey."

October 15, 2003. Simone de Beauvoir Institute, Conference Room (Room 203)

Hughette Eyüboğlu is a former researcher in Pharmacology at the University of Istanbul. She is also the founder of the Network of Foreign Spouses. Forthcoming in both English and French is her book: From the Steeple to the Minaret. Citlembik-Nettleberry. Istanbul, Turkey. In French: Du clocher au minaret. Editions Bartok Istanbul. À paraître décembre 2003.

Writing Workshops

Working under a General Education Teaching Assistantship, Candis Steenbergen and Robyn Diner, designed and taught writing workshops for students taking Introduction to Women's Studies I and II. They offered 5 different workshops offered during the first month of each term.

Candis and Robyn also provided writing, essay organization, outline, editing and research assistant information on a one-on-one basis throughout the term. The Institute provided a teaching assistantship to help out with the workshops.

Professors encouraged their students to attend the workshops, as a result, the turnout was high in both terms and many students sought out further assistance. Many students were thankful for the guidance and felt more prepared for the assignments they would complete that term (in women's studies and elsewhere).

Due to the great increase in the cost of subscriptions we are unable to order as many books as in previous years and we have also been unable to renew some subscriptions.

GIFTS AND DONATIONS:

Research Associate Kathleen O'Grady made a gift of a copy of her latest work, Religion in French Feminist Thought: Critical Perspectives as well as three more of her books. Dr. Sima Aprahamian, part-time professor at the Simone de Beauvoir Institute, generously donated a hardcover edition of, A History of Armenian Women's Writing, 1880-1922. Ms. Sissi Marini, Communications Associate, UNDP, and Michiko Aramaki donated the video "Women at Work". An anonymous donation of The Beauty Myth was also made by a Women's Studies student.

WORK STUDY PROGRAMME:

Women's Studies students Cristina Flores filled the position during the Fall semester and Christina Foisy during the Winter semester. Each student was paid $10.00 per hour and performed her duties in a laudable manner for twelve hours per week, twelve weeks per semester.

MISCELLANEOUS:

We have run out of shelf room for additional monographs and periodicals, many of which are now in boxes on the floor. It would be very helpful if we could use the rest of the fourth floor for our collection. This would entail removing and replacing one door. Security continues to patrol on a sporadic basis.
